"ANDY GUMP" Chin!

Mr. X was stricken with cancer. A successful operation was performed causing the removal of a large section of the mandible. Psychologically the operation was a failure. The patient had an "Andy Gump" chin.

An eminent surgeon came to Ticonium. He had devised a metal band to bury in the mandibular section. Ticonium recommended #25 surgical alloy for this implantation and Mr. X emerged from the operation a new man — with a "Ticonium" chin.

In the field of medicine as in dentistry, Ticonium is famous for "FIT" and great strength.

Our Midwinter Meeting Speaker

Dr. Walter H. Judd

The First General Session of the 89th Midwinter Meeting of the Chicago Dental Society presents as its main speaker one of our nation's outstanding lawmakers and policy advisors. Dr. Judd comes to us as a distinguished personage high in the councils that today are forming our foreign policies, especially those most critical ones dealing with the inflammable and unfathomable Far East and with the looming hulk of Communist China. No more vital problem confronts the Western World today than the manpower and motives of Asia and how they are manipulated by and from Moscow. No more able speaker exists to bring those problems to us in a vital and interesting way. Not for nothing does Dr. Judd enjoy the reputation as a speaker's speaker. When word goes around the halls of Congress that Judd is to speak, fellow Congressmen crowd the floor as for few other men. His recent appearance before the Executive's Club in Chicago has greatly enhanced his audience acquaintanceship here. The Chicago Dental Society is proud to present him to its members and guests.

A. D. A. PRESIDENT ALSO SPEAKS

The First General Session will also enjoy a message presented by Dr. Leslie M. FitzGerald of Dubuque, President of the American Dental Association. Dr. FitzGerald has often been active on the program of the Midwinter Meeting and enjoys a wide circle of friends among Chicago dentists. Now that he returns to us in the highly-honored capacity of our national president we are doubly glad to welcome him among us.

The First General Session takes place in the Grand Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton at 7:30 p.m. on Monday night, February 8. Dr. Robert F. Tuck will preside over the Session and our own President Elmer Ebert will present the greetings of the Chicago Dental Society.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find news of the Second General Session and our social events—the Ladies' Luncheon and Fashion Show on Tuesday noon and the Dinner-Dance and Floor Show on Wednesday night. Plan to be there.

NUTRITION AND DENTAL CARIES

The author raises the question of the structural makeup of the tooth and its relationship to the inception of caries.

Any cell system, organ or organism is most susceptible to attack or disturbance during the time of its fastest growth and development. Insufficient food is such a disturbance. Schroeder describes how vitamin deficiency at the earliest moment of embryonic development leads to disturbances and malformation.

The speed of development of individual teeth was plotted against their susceptibility to caries. The maturation time is the time between the formation of the tooth germ and the eruption of the tooth. This interval may be related to caries incidence.

As applied to individual teeth, the curve shows that a short maturation time will result in a high incidence of caries and a long maturation time in a low incidence of caries.

Detrimental influences are most effective in organs of fast development.

Insufficient food may be a detrimental influence and account for the difference in caries frequency of different teeth.—By Carl Pirlet—translated by H. L. Draker, N. Y. State Dent. Journal, Nov. '53.

J. N. L.

THE PROBLEM OF DENTAL CARE FOR CHILDREN

The lack of sufficient dental care for children is the outstanding weak link in the chain of health. This is due to three reasons: (1) economic; (2) fear and (3) lack of dental education. The first cannot be considered seriously in these times while the second and third overlap.

Teeth are allowed to decay until a "gumboil" indicates extraction. It is to be remembered that permanent teeth following abscessed deciduous teeth often exhibit hypoplastic enamel.

It is suggested that we continue our attempts at education and the prevention of caries, but in the meantime one method of control is cavity preparation under a general anesthetic.

This eliminates fear by the child and concern by the parent. Children can be safely anesthetized for the preparation of one quadrant of a mouth. The restorative work can be done at a later appointment. There should be more facilities to train dentists in general anesthesia and more interest in this means of solving the increasing burdens of caries in children's teeth.—By W. B. Swartz, The Journ. of the Okla. State Dental Ass'n., Oct. '53.

DENTAL ENGINEERING

A system of clasp and partial denture design is described in this article titled "Dental Engineering." Progress of partial denture design has evolved from retention by pressure, one clasp against another with consequent loosening of the appliance or of teeth to a predetermined system of retention in which a surveyed case with regard to tooth form and position and stability, esthetics, and the material used are all considered.

For this it was necessary to determine with a given material (1) the flexibility of clasps of varying dimensions; (2) how much undercut was necessary; (3) a method of measuring this and a system of applying it.

From measurements of hundreds of cases, a chart was made showing dimensions of clasps necessary for tooth abutments of a given circumference and the amount of undercut used.

A transparent rule was devised which

DENTAL POLITICS

Any discussion on dental politics must of necessity begin with the organizational setup of the various societies and associations related to dentistry. Of prime importance in our case would therefore be the American Dental Association and the fact that it represents the combined thinking and achievements of most of the dentists in the United States. United in a venture such as this, we can accomplish far more than we could ever hope to do ourselves. Since dentistry is now big business, we must protect it as such and maintain business relations with other professions, occupations and the government. Naturally, although the A.D.A. supervises dentistry on the national level, the individual states vary so much that there is need for state dental societies. Although these societies work under the A.D.A., each has its own Constitution, Dental Practice Act and other related items to best administer to the needs of the dentists in each state. Breaking the categories down still further, local groups must have their own societies to carry out the rulings of the state and national societies, as well as to deal with local problems. Once again, because of the character of service to be rendered, they too must have their own Constitution and By-Laws. It is apparent, therefore, that the organizational setup of dentistry that we now have is important, in fact essential, if we are to survive as a profession.

We in dentistry have been fortunate to have had good dental leaders—persons of sufficient foresight and integrity to establish us in our present position. Our future depends on the type of individuals that we pick to lead us in the future. We have enlisted the help of accountants, executive secretaries, public relations experts and others to assist in the business management of our societies, but matters relating to dentistry have been and should definitely be kept in the hands of dentists. These individuals have all been grouped under the classification of dental politicians. Many persons object to this classification but the fact still remains that anyone engaged in the government of dental affairs must therefore be engaged in dental politics.

What type of person enters dental politics? Usually men that have made a success of their own practice of dentistry and are looking for other fields to conquer. Because of enthusiasm for their profession and financial success, these individuals feel that they do not care to stagnate in their offices and would like to broaden their scope of interest. The prime motivating factor is usually the deep conviction that they are capable, in a small way, of contributing to the maintenance of the high professional standards of dentistry. This type of dentist usually willingly accepts any position given him, does a good job, and expects very little personal glory. He serves on committees, attends meetings, and after many years of service accepts high office if offered. He does not seek a high office but accepts it as a reward for his many years of service to the profession. On the other hand, there are persons who enter dental politics with strict personal acclaim as their motive and are out for all the glory they can get. They want their name known by everyone and usually do not care how they do it. They are dissenters and trouble makers, disrupting the honest efforts of others, and usually making fools of themselves. They want the best positions and the high offices without the preliminary training necessary. They are the same as weeds in a wheat field or thorns on a rose bush. Usually being thick-skinned individuals, they are hard to insult, but constant reversals and reprimands will eventually soak into their distorted brains the fact that they are not wanted and are emphatically a discredit to dentistry.

A word or two about dental political parties. Any one group consistently in control of an organization tends to weaken the structure and removes the competitive spirit of achievement. It is natural for one group to think that they can do a better job than the one in power, and if they can elect officers, then they can try to prove it. As long as it is impossible for any one party to remain in the driver's seat for long, their actions on society matters must be beyond reproach. Since dentistry has a limited scope, its members should be friendly and cordial, regardless of their political affiliations. Remember, it is easy to make a political enemy.

Dental politics is unique in many ways, regardless of whether it is on the national, state or local level. Without financial reward, thousands of dentists are engaged in society affairs, spending many hours as well as many of their own dollars to better the profession. We must be ever vigilant that our leaders be men of sterling character. The days ahead for dentistry look rough and if we are to continue the splendid progress made, we must have only the best of dental leaders. Encourage the younger members to take an active part in their society affairs. Try giving a little, not just taking. Remember always that dentistry has been good to us—let us be good to dentistry.

NEWS OF THE BRANCHES

WEST SIDE

Hi!—The Chicago Dental Society reaches the pinnacle of achievement Feb. 7-10, when it presents the outstanding dental meeting of the country, the 89th Midwinter Meeting. Many months of diligent and laborious toil expended by a host of various committee chairmen and members, under the active and exemplary leadership of President Elmer Ebert, will culminate in an inspiring academic and practical panorama of the varied dental sciences. Our world-famous Midwinter Meeting needs no ballyhoo. The highly diversified program and many attending features arranged for your edification and enjoyment merit your attendance at this 89th meeting. May we suggest you come to the Hilton Hotel early Sunday afternoon, February 7th, register, then enjoy a leisurely visit to the grand display of highly interesting and instructive commercial exhibits. Then, too, many extracurricular activities are on the agenda for your enjoyment. Most important, you will avoid the Monday morning jam with all its unavoidable confusion, and you will be all set to derive the maximum benefits from YOUR Midwinter Meeting. . . . In our constant and mostly fruitless pursuit of elusive blurbs for these ramblings, we are impressed by the large number of our more affluent members who plan to escape from the rigors of winter to the soothing tropical climes as soon as the Midwinter Meeting is history. Kind of makes us regret we did not clutch on to more of the elusive coin of the realm when we were in our prime, so we too could trek off to Florida, Hawaii, Mexico, or any place under the warm sun. Oh, well, it was fun while it lasted. . . . Since visiting the Sahuara Forest located in the sheltered foothills of the Tanque Mountains where over 1200 varieties of cactus abound, eating cactus candy and drinking cactus juice, Harry Weinfield is so full of cactus he is afraid to sit down. However, he is enjoying immensely his extended holiday under blue skies and white sun in Arizona. While in Phoenix, Harry visited a former West Side member, Bob Baxter, who he reports is doing right well and is very happy and contented in his adopted state. . . . For a break from the daily chores, Jim Dillon dashed off to the land where the Budweiser flows. For a guy who does not sip the nectar of the Gods, the amber fluid, what fun is there in St. Louis? . . . Two men, one complaining of a toothache, usurped Seymour Goldberg's operating room and, drawing a wicked knife, nonchalantly cut off the cords from the Venetian blind and securely tied Seymour in his dental chair. Leisurely they stripped him of $25.00 in cash, a valuable wrist watch, fountain pen, cigarette lighter and several other items. There have been several similar holdups of West Side dentists in recent weeks. Be careful and on the alert with strange patients. . . . After spending the holidays with his son, a Navy physician stationed at Jacksonville, Frank Murrin toured the scenic east coast of Florida. He returned the middle of January much refreshed from his holiday under the sun. . . . Many West Side members of the Arcolian Dental Arts Society are planning a gay and delightful evening at the annual dinner dance to be held at the LaSalle Hotel, Feb. 20-'54. Proceeds from the affair help to augment the benefit fund from which frequent contributions are made to the Salvation Army Dental Clinic and other dental charities. . . . The spark plug of our friendship hour was missing at our Jan. 12 meeting. Maurice Perlin, who was hospitalized just before the holidays, expected only a short stay but at this time was still in the Michael Reese Hospital. However, he is feeling much better and expects to be released soon. We do hope by this time he has fully recovered and is again his cheery self. . . . We just learned George A. Berd, 3501 W. Roosevelt Rd., and David Peterson, 4300 W. Madison St., were the latest victims of holdups in their offices similar to the Seymour Goldberg incident we previously related. They, too, were tied in their dental chair and robbed of considerable money and valuables. This dental crime wave is reaching alarming proportions on the West Side. Do take precautionary measures to protect yourself and valuables. . . . Louis Batler is working hard all his spare time building a recreation room in the basement of his new home. . . . Another fine crowd enjoyed our Jan. 12 meeting which featured Henry Glupker who, with voice recordings and an excellent film, presented a highly informative lecture on "Habilitation and Rehabilitation of the Prosthodontic Patient." Our business meeting evoked a provocative and rousing discussion on dentist participation in Social Security. A resolution instructing the Secretary to write a letter to the President and Board of Directors of the Chicago Dental Society that the West Side branch stands on record as being in favor of dentist participation in Social Security was passed, and the Secretary, Frank Kropik, so ordered. . . . There will be no meeting in Feb., but Harold Epstein has under way plans for another outstanding meeting March 9. As at this meeting, election of officers is on the agenda. Pres. Max Chubin appointed the following Nominating Committee: Bill Gubbins, Chairman; George Barnes, Leo Cahill, Sam Rakow, and Al Sells. . . . This is all for now. We will be looking for you at the Midwinter Meeting. Be there!—Adolph F. Stark, Branch Correspondent.

KENWOOD-HYDE PARK

Say, you backsliders, and I do mean you; you missed a very good meeting on January 5. Not only did Dr. Kirby do an excellent job, but we had women there. The ladies were really good; they gave demonstrations on care and oiling of handpieces, cotton rolls, and recall systems. There were also a goodly number of ladies there as guests. Dr. Kirby told us that there is no more Practice Management, it is now Practice Administration and I believe that everyone present agrees with him. I just don't know how to tell all of the things that you missed by not attending the meeting. Well, one thing that was the topic for most of the evening other than the speaker was the lump on the side of Clinton Fisher's face. We could be bad and say that he was so thickheaded (which isn't true) that all he got was the bump, but it is bad when you can't walk away from your office without the need of a bodyguard. Of course, we blame Graham Davies a bit because he claims to have had several fracture cases lately and maybe his gang is getting out of hand. I don't think that there has been a meeting in which one person had the entire group so concerned. We hope that there wasn't anything more to it than the bump. . . . Before something happens and it slips my mind, look at our next meeting's program: Harry Sicher, M.D., talking on "Anatomy and Occlusion." If you have ever heard Dr. Sicher, you will not want to miss this lecture. For those of you who do not know who he is and what he has done, let this help you. Dr. Sicher was born and educated in Vienna, Austria. He has been a teacher of Anatomy in Vienna and America for a total of forty years, and may well be termed a most popular lecturer on this subject. He has written many articles and text books, "Bone and Bones," and "Oral Anatomy." In spite of his extremely busy schedule he has devoted much time to extensive research on "Eruption of Teeth," "Bone Developments" and "Growth of Skull." Dr. Sicher was recently awarded an honorary degree by Loyola University and is also an honorary member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, American Association of Anatomists, International Association of Dental Research, American Association of Mammalogists, a fellow in the American Association for Advancement of Science, and an honorary fellow in the Academy of Denture Prosthesis. The date for this meeting is the 2nd of March and DON'T YOU FORGET IT. . . . I hurt somebody's feelings by not showing up at his party during the holidays, but I never got the invite, and that made me mad because the party was a good one.

You see, Rudy, I didn't snub you at all, I just didn't know about it, so sorry. . . . DON'T FORGET THAT THERE IS NO BRANCH MEETING IN FEB., but get your lazy bones down to the BIG MEETING at the Hilton and try to learn (if you stay away from the bar, etc.) some of the new things that are happening to dentistry. It isn't like going to school where the teacher asks the questions, here you ask them. There will be a lot of our men giving clinics and introducing speakers and of course the PRES. is from among us. There will be a lot to see and hear, so don't wait until Wed. because that will be too late, get down there Sunday and then stay until Wed. . . . Ben, the traveling orthodontist, Herzberg is on the move again, this time he is going to Cuba, he can't get good cigars here so he has to go there for them. Poor Ben has to give a paper down there and to think that he has to leave our cold weather to that of warm Cuba, poor Ben. . . . Elmer Ebert and Dr. Appleman have gone highhat, they are now TV stars. On the 9th they were on an educational program, so that makes them stars. Maybe they should have more such programs and make us all stars, not just on TV, but in our offices. . . . Harry Hartley was surprised over the holidays by the visit from his son. It is strange how much more it means to have the family home for the holidays.—W. H. Lutton, Correspondent.

NORTH SUBURBAN

Everyone seems to be getting ready to attend the big Midwinter Meeting at the Conrad Hilton in February. It is a wonderful time to get away from the office for a few days, see old friends and keep up with dentistry. Many of our members have contributed a great deal of time and effort working on committees and in preparing clinics. Caryl Cameron, Jim Plants, Tod Dewel, Russ Johnson, Maynard Cook, Jay Welborn, Paul Dinga, R. E. West, and Dick Renn are all giving clinics and probably some more that I don't know about. This represents a lot on their part so let's get out and support them all. . . . The Evanston Association of Dentists has elected its new officers for the coming year. Carl Brasmer is president, Art Freeman, vice-president; Fred Verink, the secretary-treasurer. We held our annual party on the afternoon of New Year's eve at Zeke Smothers' home and it was wonderful as usual. I feel sorry for any of you who couldn't be there. Clarence Stearns was in charge of the arrangements and he and committee really outdid themselves with a terrific smorgasborg luncheon to go along with the liquor. Most of the members were there and certainly enjoyed themselves. I hope the house recovered, Zeke. . . . Eddie Baumann has taken over the job as Director of our branch for a while as Walter Poyer has asked for a leave of absence. Walter is now down in Florida and getting along very well, I understand. . . . The Lake County Dental Society held its first meeting on Monday, January 11. Commander William Wolforth, who was chief dental instructor at Bethesda, gave the clinic on "Indirect Procedures for Crown and Bridge Technique Utilizing Alginate Hydrocolloid." . . . Our Branch meeting was held Tuesday, January 12, and was well attended despite the sub-zero weather. There were 88 men out for the meeting and Fred Verink tells me there have been 89 dinner tickets sold this year, which may be a record. The speaker of the evening was Dr. William T. Heron, coming from Minneapolis by "popular demand." He is professor of psychology at the University of Minnesota and his subject, the increasingly popular "Normal Suggestion and Hypnosis in Dentistry." Dr. Heron's fine presentation was instructive and enjoyable as he straightened us out on many popular disbeliefs and enumerated the indications, advantages and disadvantages. The last portion of the meeting was devoted to a demonstration by Dr. Heron on four of our members. Some of them were fine subjects but not Francis Yager, he was heckled too much. . . . A number of dentists in the Park Ridge area are taking a course given on Wednesdays by Dr. Secter in Hypnodontia. . . . Waldo "Sweater" Urban read a very complete minutes of the last meeting. He didn't leave out a detail. . . . It was nice to see Dr. Davis of the Evanston Community Hospital, at luncheon the other day; we'd also like to see him out for the North Suburban meetings. . . . Dick Renn and Harry Chronquist report doing a lot of good shooting recently at their hunting club. They got nine pheasants and eight rabbits and Dick gives all the credit to a new gun. . . . Caryl Cameron and family spent New Year's weekend at Lake Lawn in Wisconsin, skating and relaxing. I know, because the Freemans were there with them. . . . See you at the Midwinter Meeting.—Arthur G. Freeman, Branch Correspondent.

NORTHWEST SIDE

Well, the holidays are over and the Northwest Branch is back in business. And, any of you who missed the business part of the meeting really missed something. Other things may be lacking, but on the Northwest side we are NOT short of parliamentarians. Of that we have a profusion. But enuf of that, let's go on. . . . Dr. Carl W. Gieler was the speaker of the evening. Subject, "Dentures," but it really wasn't that way at all. He presented a complete picture of dentures from the preliminary examination of the new patient to the completed denture and its delivery. To complete the evening, our own LaMar Harris, Mrs. Harris and his assistant gave a table clinic. All in all, it was a full evening. And speaking of full, that chicken dinner with all the trimmings a la Stella's, hasn't been equalled since we left. No more changes of meeting place, please. . . . LaMar Harris is building a combination home and research lab and clinic about ninety miles from Salt Lake City. A patient will be able to visit LaMar, find a place to sleep, a place to eat, a good hunting country, and come back with a new set of dentures. What a set up! More details as your reporter will gather them. . . . Joe Lebow, our vice-president, developed a new approach on this Florida business. He is spending his time in the hospital at St. Petersburg, Fla. Nothing serious, but by the time that the MDs get thru with the tests and etc., it will be time for him to come back to Chicago. Nothing fancy, just different. That's our Joe. . . . At last a grandfather who approaches this reporter and says: "Ben, I am a grandfather." That makes two for B. B. Pawlowski, one of each, a grandson and a granddaughter. Congratulations. . . . Mark Spencer missed the usual trip to Iowa this year, going all the way west this time to the West Coast. . . . The old tie is still there. Milo Kubelick, an old Northwester, who is now practicing in Medford, Oregon, was in town. So he was Alf Altern's guest to dinner at our meeting. Even in Oregon he couldn't get better chicken. . . . Vig Sorensen has been made a member of the examining board of the Oral Surgeons, National, that is.—Ben Davidson, Branch Correspondent.

NORTH SIDE

While most members of the North Side Branch will be attending the Midwinter Meeting, several members of our Branch will be presenting a part of the program which attracts thousands of dentists from all over the country. Theodore and Wilbert Gordon, Arthur Krause, Robert Laff, Balint Orban and Walter Nock are on the program to present limited attendance clinics. Among the essayists are Robert Donovan and Balint Orban. Among those presenting table clinics are Alfred Kamin, Irwin Hirschenbein, Paul Chung, K. S. Khedroo, Russell Boothe and George Matsumoto. We can be proud of these members of our Branch who are helping the Midwinter Meeting to continue as the greatest dental meeting in the country. . . . Congratulations to Bob Laff on his recent marriage. While on his honeymoon in New York, he dropped in on the annual meeting of the Alpha Omega Fraternity being held at the Waldorf Astoria. Maurice Altus, Alfred Kamin and Paul Brown were present as delegates to this 46th annual meeting. Al Kamin was elected regent for this district. . . . Maurice Strilky was in New York over the holidays taking in all the shows—and nightclubs? . . . Maurice Fein was a visitor to northern New York State. He claims he went to enjoy the winter sports. . . . Earl Elman tells his story about Social Security in the recent issue of Cal magazine. The same issue also features a story about Irv Sexter and the Academy of Hypnodontia. . . . Another thespian has turned up in

Strauss for further information about this event. . . . Earl Hullison has been in the hospital for a few days, but with his vitality we know he will be back in the office shortly. . . . Lee Jacobi recently visited Flint, Michigan, for several days. . . . LeRoy Levey and Ruby Kadens have been giving a series of lectures to the dental assistants as part of their course for certification by the Chicago Dental Society. . . . Jack Milstead writes an interesting column for the Edgewater Reporter of B'nai B'rith. . . . We regret to hear that Francis Joseph's father has been ill but hope he will be well shortly. . . . Harold Rabin has opened his office on Devon Avenue for the practice of Oral Surgery. He took his surgical training at Research and Cook County Hospitals and was in private practice before serving with the Air Force. He instructs at the University of Illinois and is taking further graduate work in addition to his practice. . . . Nat Rosen flew to Florida for the holidays. . . . Henry Glupker addressed the West Side Branch at their January meeting. . . . Maurice Falstein was one of the three speakers in the symposium on Practice Management at the January meeting of the Chicago Dental Society. . . . Congratulations to the Phil Schoens on the birth of a son, James Edmund, who arrived on December 14th. . . . James Edmund was quite a Christmas present for his four brothers and three sisters. . . . "Major" Chester Stanley was home for a few days during the Christmas holidays. . . . Len Foley is already living like a real southern gentleman down in sunny Florida. He practices from Monday to Wednesday and then enjoys a four-day week end EVERY week. He spends most of his weekends fishing and now claims that we damn Yankees just don't know how to live. . . . Let's relax and all take off for the Midwinter meeting.—Frank Hanagan, Branch Correspondent.

is placed over a tooth to give its size group. From this, the chart gives the necessary length for a clasp, its taper and depth of undercut.

This is used with an all-purpose surveyor which parallels undercuts and measures them on a $\frac{1}{4}$ millimeter scale.

From a series of guides on the rule, the clasp position can be located once the undercuts are fixed.

Nature, in her most perfect form of design, achieves an admired symmetry, a harmony of components with their whole, and a resulting natural beauty which, though often imitated, is rarely equalled, but never surpassed.

Trubyte Bioform Teeth follow Nature's own principles of design. The forms of Trubyte Bioform Teeth are the result of careful and prolonged study of thousands of extracted natural teeth, hundreds of skulls with good dentition and hundreds of patients. They are truly representative of the appearance of beautiful natural teeth. Each form has been carefully selected for its size and proportions, approximate outline form and pleasing labial characteristics. Labial markings vary in type from one form to another. No two forms in any classification are identical even in outline. No pattern has been followed beyond that provided by Nature.

Trubyte Bioform Teeth are in harmony with all three dimensions of the face — outline form, profile and cheek planes. They form the basis for a system of tooth selection which assures an esthetic result never before attainable. They enable every dentist to attain a new degree of excellence in his prosthetic work.
